A Little History...

In 1979, Congress mandated the establishment of Vet Centers in order to provide readjustment counseling services to Vietnam era Veterans who were experiencing problems adjusting to civilian life. The program's success enabled an expansion of services that included veterans who served in conflicts such as WWII and the Korean War, along with any individuals who had experienced sexual harassment/ trauma in the military. Today there are over 300 Vet Centers located throughout the United States and it's Territories in order to provide counseling for past, present, and future veterans. We thank you for your service, and greet you with a sincere
